The Democrats of Pennsylvania have inaugurated a Randall boom

It is an argument only absurd things in Washington and one of them is that Gen Sherman would accept the Democratic nomination for the Presidency

The Democrats of Rhode Island have had a great deal of difficulty in filling their State ticket and it keeps the committee busy supplying withdrawals fast as the nominations occur

Chicago appears to be rapidly dividing, the lines being forced upon it on a new distinction, little that of the City of Conventions. The Presidential gatherings have already been set for that place being that of the anti-monopolists How many more may yet to be heard from is uncertain, but there are doubtless possibilities in that respect

Boxes were placed at all the voting places in Youngstown Ohio Monday for the purpose of ascertaining the Republican preference for President The vote stood Blaine 1 Hunt Lincoln 33, Edmunds 17 Frelinghuysen 10 Arthur 14, Sherman 11 John Sherman 10 Grant 8 Gunning S Logan 1 Hoadley 1 Bayard 1 Hendricks 1 Tilden 1 Cleveland 1 Old District

We publish in another column an article from the Boston Post of interesting character upon the subject of the bill relating to the Public Lands which was recently pushed through the House without giving any opportunity for discussion or consideration. The bill has never been reported by the Committee on Public Lands, but was introduced by Mr Hewitt of New York, and was passed under the operation of the previous question. It is thought by some that the bill restricting the life of patents to seven years will be defeated, but it has never been considered in the Senate

Mr Henry Watterson who is now in Washington reporting in the interest of the Louisville Courier-Journal has been interviewed by the New York Tribune and the following expressive language is reported to come from the field

Colonel Watterson says away from his desk he can't write about ten words that he thinks are worth the paper they are printed on. He does not every day delight, enlighten and edify us. Can't Mr Watterson be induced to encourage the Democratic party on the Pacific slope? Let him stay down from it until after the next Presidential election and see how nicely it will run without him

They Neither Like Facts Nor Figures

Whenever a free trade advocate attempts to speak or write in favor of his pet theory he manifests the utmost contempt for facts and figures and puts in their place a lot of glittering generalities which he fondly hopes may be accepted by the intelligent people of this country No matter whether he be a member of Congress or one who travels in the more humble paths of life, the moment he attempts to set up a defence for this doctrine of free trade that moment he wants to ignore all those facts and statistics from which the thinking people of this country learn that they are better off financially people on the face of the earth and place in their stead a lot of theories, which when carefully analyzed disappear like snow before the rays of a summer sun In this connection the Philadelphia North American refers as follows to the recent speech of Hon S S Cox in the House of Representatives

"Nothing could have given finer point to the free-trade declaration than the expression of Mr S S Cox in his recent speech He said he did not care for statistics, for figures and the conclusions based upon them as regards wage rates, or indeed as regards anything else dependent upon statistics No more does he care, and no more does his free-trade school care, for facts and figures It was a prominent feature of the old-time free-trade argument that facts and figures were conspicuously ignored. In fact the Democratic party has no foe so implacable as facts and figures

Owing to this contempt for facts, Mr Cox was led to declare that 'labor, skilled and unskilled is not now enjoying the comforts of life, the ease and independence enjoyed by the industrial classes who worked under the wholesome conditions of the past generation.' Those are Mr Cox's words as they are published in the free-trade journals Their surest refutation lies in comparing the condition of the working classes to-day with that which prevailed a quarter of a century ago The testimony of men who were working then and are still working must be worth something Away from the slums of cities, whose misery springs from vices and dissipation, the testimony of real workingmen and women is all the other way

"The man who lives to observe and learn knows that labor is enjoying better wages and better conditions than it did twenty-five years ago "The tables of the working world are better provided as respects variety, its people are better housed and better clad, and the youth are better educated than they were in that not very distant period In the agricultural regions the farmers have grown prosperous, while thousands who were hired servants a quarter of a century ago are now proprietors, owning their acres and tilling them at a greater net profit on the varied product than any farmers ever enjoyed before The city of Philadelphia itself furnishes a complete refutation of the declaration of Mr. Cox.- Its growth is almost wholly the increase of wealth among the working classes."

A Fruitless Caucus

THE DEMOCRACY DIVIDED ON THE TARIFF QUESTION—THE MORRISON FACTION UNABLE TO CARRY THE DAY—AND DID NOT DARE OFFER A BINDING RESOLUTION—FIRM STAND OF THE RANDALL FACTION AGAINST MORRISON—SPEAKER CARLISLE THROWS OUT A BOY TO THE SOUTHERNERS

[Special Dispatch to the Boston Journal]

WASHINGTON, March 17 The Democrats throughout the day were in a flutter of expectation over the coming caucus Beginning at an early hour a number of conferences succeeded each other during the day Mr Randall and his friends were busy with preparations for their struggle tonight, and so were Chairman Morrison Speaker Carlisle and their friends Conversation with leaders of the respective factions led to the conclusion that the previous reformers had abandoned their determination to resist part of the party Democrats who cannot be brought to the support of the Morrison bill

The Randall men on the other hand asserted stiffer and more belligerent to-day than at any previous time and some of them declared with profane emphasis that the whole business of tariff tinkering in spite of all efforts to the contrary would receive quietus to-night. They would listen to no propositions whatever they said They demanded a surrender of the whole position of Morrison They were willing to go into caucus They were willing to discuss the merits of the situation and of the bill itself, but under no circumstances would they be dragooned into its support by threats or bribed by promises of modification They were ready to join hands with reasonable reformers to reduce the surplus They would vote to repeal all or nearly all the internal taxes but they were firmly resolved not to pare to any bad bills with with the tariff through any form of a horizontal reduction of duties or otherwise

The majority of the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee was ready to concede that a section should be added to the Morrison bill providing for the abolition of the taxes on tobacco cigars &c., and on the manufacture of spirits from apples peaches and their fruits In this they yielded a point respecting which they were very positive yesterday Then they insisted that the provision must precede and not follow acompany in equal revenue legislation and said this afternoon that the sub-committee of which he is a member in framing under consideration a bill modifying the internal revenue laws they would be willing to attach this to the Morrison bill if the protectionist Democrats would agree then to support the measure

A good many dispatches were received by the leaders of the respective factions during the day A number of Michigan lumbermen Democrats and Republicans united in a dispatch to Randall urging him to stand firm by the cause to-night against anti-tariff legislation and declaring the Democratic Representatives from Michigan misrepresent the people of the State in giving their consent to the Morrison bill as it now stands. Robert Bonner sent a dispatch to Carlisle, informing him that the country is with him on the Morrison bill and urging him not to yield it. Senators Pugh of Alabama and Pendleton of Ohio also received dispatches and letters from various manufacturing and industrial corporations and organizations beseeching them to stand firm in their opposition to tariff agitation

THE RESULT OF THE CAUCUS

The caucus was in session from 8 30 until near midnight The caucus was not unruly, more harmonious than was expected There was at all events a unanimous resolution passed that the legislation proceed with the consideration of the Morrison bill who did be regarded as a test of party fealty The following is a brief outline of the results reached At the outset of the caucus Carlisle proposed a resolution stating that it would be offered in the event of the adoption of the resolutions which were to be presented by Mr Randall that they were to be regarded as a part of the general proposition The resolutions as proposed by Randall were intended as a substitute for the Morrison resolutions and were intended as a substitute for the bill on fruit, brandy and tobacco It was at first rejected but after the Morrison resolutions were rejected the Carlisle proposition as a compromise or a peace offering was also adopted

The Democrats say that the caucus was less violent than they had expected but as a matter of fact they left off where they began They passed no binding resolution and the discovery was made that a large minority will not support the Morrison bill The caucus in short developed the fact that the protection position is so strong that the opposing faction does not dare to attempt to stifle or throttle it No attempt was therefore made in that direction The Morrison resolution had two parts 1st that the Morrison bill or some bill which provides a reduction of tariff shall be considered without delay 2d that the adoption of this resolution shall not be deemed to constrain the vote or the action of any member except to said extents as they might be influenced by the expression of opinion of the majority of their party associates

On Carlisle's resolution was offered as an independent resolution, the statement being made at the time it was presented that it was offered upon the condition that it might serve to harmonize the caucus The Carlisle resolution provided for the abolition of the tax on tobacco on fruit and cigars and the reduction of the tax on distilled spirits to ten cents provided however that this reduction of the tobacco tax etc. should stand or fall with the Tariff bill, that if the Tariff bill should fail in either House the tobacco and fruit bill should also fail The Carlisle resolution was not at first accepted The debate under the five-minute rule then began on the Morrison resolutions After several hours debate they were adopted by a vote of 114 yeas to 97 nays. The Morrison men say that this negative vote was larger than the vote in opposition to the Morrison bill will be as it included some who thought that the resolutions were something in the nature of a gag and they were disposed to resist that

The Randall men hold to the contrary view Speeches were made in support of the Morrison resolution by Morrison Carlisle, Blackburn Reagan Bland, and others Holman spoke, but it was said that it was impossible to say with which he was or and that he did not himself seem to know. On the Randall side speeches were made by Randall Hollitzell Wilson of West Virginia, Hewitt Cabman, Tully, Hopkins and others. These are the substantial results of the caucus Rather more than the usual secrecy was exhibited as to the characteristics of the several speeches The fruit brandy and tobacco resolution was subsequently adopted by a vote of 88 to 27

Randall said that he would un-der no circumstances support a bill aimed at the existing tariff He did not propose by his vote to disregard the wishes of his constituents A resolution for the appointment of a committee of five members was made, three from the Morrison faction and two from the Randall wing. It was supported only by Randall men It was suggested by the opposition that in such case Randall might be selected, in which event there would be no agreement, as Randall had said he would not agree to disturb the tariff The proposition failed. Dorsheimer strenuously opposed all propositions to reduce internal revenue tax He said whiskey and tobacco are luxuries upon which taxes should be paid, while the tariff was imposed upon necessities.

Many members of the caucus became tired out long before the body adjourned, and left for their homes. Among those who stayed until adjournment there was a very general opinion that the whole proceedings had amounted to nothing practical, and that the Democratic party is no more united upon the question of tariff to-night than it was one year ago It seems to be a general belief that Randall has gained a victory, and that the Morrison bill can never pass the House Congressman Dibble of South Carolina, in speaking of the action of the caucus said "So long as the Democratic party has not gone backward from its position last year, we are all right. We do not want to agitate the tariff question too much on the eve of a Presidential contest. There will be a great deal of talk, but there will be no result." A New York member who supported Randall, said "We have gained our point Morrison's caucus has amounted to nothing We stand to-day in exactly the same position in reference to the tariff as we did before the House first met, and we will stand there at the close of the session

The Raid Upon Patents

[Boston Journal March 17]

The Western people have of late suffered somewhat by purchasing patented articles or patent rights of those who had no right to dispose of them, As the result they have been prosecuted by the owners of the rights and made to pay. They are angry with the people who invent and who have their money, experience and limits invested on patents instead of those who stole the rights of the patentees and sell them the stolen goods As the result of their feeling their Congressmen have presented several bills which are designed to help inventors and the owners of patents of their rights and their property Already several of these bills have been pushed through the House and others have been presented in the Senate the Senate Committee on Patents consisting of Messrs Platt of Connecticut, Hoar of Massachusetts Mitchell, of Pennsylvania Logan of New York Coke of Texas, Call of Florida and Sanders of New Jersey now have these bills under consideration, the first hearing occurring yesterday

There is an army of inventors in New England men who have done as much to promote the progress and the comfort of the people as any class of men in the country But for them the power of the West would be, without that machinery which now makes their industry profitable There is not an industry which does not owe its progress to the inventive genius, quickened by the rewards and the rights which their patents have confer Of the bills designed to deprive the inventors of their rights attention is called to the provisions of two or three House bill 2020 introduced by Mr Calkins of Indiana, provides substantially that the inventor or owner of a patent bringing a suit against infringers shall recover no costs and shall pay the defendant's lawyer $50! And yet the measure, so ridiculous in every respect was passed by the House by a large majority House bill 3331, introduced by Mr Vance of North Carolina declares that any person may use a patented article without liability until he has received notice that the patent exists when he may procure the patentee to give him the use of it upon the payment of such royalty as the courts may name. This bill passed the House by a vote of 124 to 6

Mr Peterson, of Kansas has introduced a bill which reduces the existence of a patent from seventeen to five years But the most remarkable bill is that of the Hon Hannibal Hamlin, Senator from Maine which provides that if any person purchases a patented article with out notice that it is covered by a patent or without notice that the seller has no right to sell such article such want of notice shall be a good defence in an action for infringement and subsequent notice shall not be available in any way the right of such purchaser to absolute ownership That is one may buy another's stolen goods and get a good title All of these bills proceed upon the theory that patents are not property—that they are hostile to our laws and precedents The United States has enjoyed the world in the production of labor saving machines and inventions to make life comfortable and to bring luxuries within the reach of all No class of people on the face of the earth are more worthy of protection than those who devote their time and money to efforts to cheapen labor and improve methods that will tend to lessen the burdens of life and increase the comforts of the human race

Those who believe that patentees should be secured in the future as in the past in the results of their discovery, and those who are interested in patents, should lose no time in informing their Senators in regard to the species of robbery which the bills now in the hands of the Senate Committee involve

CITY REPORTS.

Annual Report of the Street Commissioner.

BANGOR, March 13, 1884.

To the City Council of Bangor:

Gentlemen—The following is a brief report of the financial and practical condition of the Highway Department for the past municipal year:

Receipts, $21,634.84; expenditures, $20,635.09, unexpended balance, $999.75.

Between the Superintendent of Sewers and the Street Commissioner, there are, as now established by usage, some contradictory duties, to one of which I desire especially to call the attention of the City Council. It has been the custom and practice of the Street Commissioner to remove from all cesspools and sewer chambers, all material which by clogging, has prevented the free passage of water from the streets and gutters. In my opinion, the Superintendent of Sewers should have supreme control and care of all sewers and their connections. It should be the duty of the Street Commissioner to see that the gutters are kept clean, and in winter, properly excavated for drainage, and there his duty and responsibility should cease. The Superintendents of Sewers, should be required by ordinance or otherwise, to keep all sewer grates and chimneys open at all seasons of the year, and thus have the complete sewer system under his control, and relieve the Street Commissioner of so much of his existing and ever increasing responsibility.

The usual necessary repairs of streets, have been made and the relative amount, compared with last year, of concrete walks laid, during the past municipal year. About the only repairs of bridges which have been made, were on the bridge at the "Salt Mill" which was re-planked and put in thorough repair.

The Department has incurred a large and unusual expense by the construction of two new roads—the Burleigh, and the Cooper—at an expense of about $1,700.00. The expense was somewhat larger on the Cooper road than on the Burleigh.

But for the late heavy snow storms the winter has proved to be very favorable in this department, and by careful management I have been able to keep within the amount of money appropriated for the highway fund. It was generally understood at the commencement of the past municipal year, that the system of granite paving was to be continued. I believe the expenditure incurred by such system to be wise, judicious and economical. I recommend an appropriation, annually, of such sum as the city can afford to bestow, preferring paving our principal business thoroughfares.

The Street Commissioner in presenting this brief report, desires to express, in closing, his high appreciation of the excellent qualities of each member of the Committee on Streets and Highways, and Board of Street Engineers, and for the many favors shown him, expresses herein his sincere thanks and just appreciation.

A. K. ROLLINS,
Street Commissioner.

Where the Fire is Out.

Magic No More a Mystery—Soon From Across the World.

"Throne of Aloppo," said the Philosophical magi, mastered every secret in nature which the matter magic seeks to fathom. He discovered that the true art of keeping it to assist Nature to throw off the disease to surmount, as it were, the whole system to reject the enemy that has fastened on a part. His processes all included the revivification of the principle of life."

In this the Eastern sage merely antedipated the practice of the best physicians of to-day. What life itself is nobody knows, though—almost—known now. But we have learned something of the reasons why the mysterious tide rises and falls. Provided the great organs of the body are not irreparably destroyed, medical science can always relieve, and often save. Yet no reputable physician now adheres to the barbarous and stupid processes of depletion, such as bleeding, by which it was attempted to cure disease by reducing the patient's ability to resist it. Non-science we do not fear—hope is the best to help the patient—we strengthen it. In this intelligent and beneficent work, it is conceded that PARKER'S TONIC leads all other medicines. As an invigorant, it acts immediately and powerfully upon the circulation and organs of digestion, thus giving Nature the assistance she calls for. It follows that all diseases of the stomach, kidneys and liver are at once relieved or cured. No other preparation embodies the same qualities or produces similar results. It is delicious to use, and the best known and intoxicant. Price 50c and $1. HISCOX & CO., New York.
